Bob represents clients in complex commercial litigation, including contract disputes, business torts, and white-collar and financial services matters.

Bob supports clients and litigation teams by drafting affidavits, motions to compel discovery, and motions for dismissal. He frequently contributes to summary judgment motions, complaints, and notices of subpoenas and depositions.

After obtaining a degree in theatre from Michigan State University, Bob spent 10 years as a successful stage and television actor in New York before returning home to the Midwest to pursue a career in the law.
