Caitlin identifies client goals and implements innovative solutions to achieve their desired results.

Caitlin's practice focuses on mergers and acquisitions, corporate and securities law, and private equity, with an eye for technology, manufacturing and education. She counsels clients on a wide range of transactional matters, and helps them close their deals seamlessly.

Caitlin earned her J.D. from Notre Dame Law School. During law school, she held a variety of valuable positions, most recently with Presence Health's in-house transactional team where she analyzed and drafted contracts and policies. During her last semester of law school, she had the opportunity to study European business law in Ireland as a visiting student of Trinity College Dublin's LL.M. program. Caitlin also has experience working at an Illinois criminal defense firm and insurance defense firm.
