Chuks is a practice area specialist in the Firm's corporate, international trade, and regulatory practice areas.

He is a graduate of Howard University, magna cum laude, majoring in Political Science with a minor in Economics.

Chuks hopes to be a judge one day, so "I can give back to my fellow compatriots a standard of fairness and accountability." His desire to help others started with volunteering after he graduated high school. He knew he wanted to help people, but he didn't know what type of career he wanted to have. Coming from a family of giving back, he wanted to follow in the footsteps of the people before him. Starting his career in law at Thompson Coburn is a dream come true.
