Kayla draws on her FERC background to help clients navigate FERC settlement negotiations and litigation.

Capitalizing on her prior experience as an Attorney Advisor to Federal Energy Regulatory Commission (FERC) Administrative Law Judges, Kayla advocates for clients in electric transmission matters. This includes advising clients on issues related to FERC jurisdiction, cost-of-service stated and formula transmission rates, electric utility tariffs and RTO/ISO markets.

Kayla also counsels clients in North American Electric Reliability Corporation (NERC) Reliability Standards compliance and monitors NERC developments.

While in law school, Kayla interned for a petroleum and natural gas exploration and production company as well as a company that provides midstream services to the energy industry.
