Kristen litigates complex commercial disputes, class actions, and state and local tax cases for companies in Missouri and across the country. She is experienced in all stages of litigation, including initial case analysis, large-scale discovery, drafting and arguing dispositive motions, as well as trying cases and appeals.

Before rejoining Thompson Coburn in 2018, Kristen served as Deputy Counsel to the Governor of the State of Missouri. As Deputy Counsel, Kristen had the responsibility of overseeing the legal departments for state agencies, leading the Governor's judicial selection process, including the appointment of more than 20 judges to St. Louis courts, and counseling the office on high-profile litigation.
