Nabil assists clients in a broad range of corporate and securities areas, including mergers, acquisitions, and capital markets.

Nabil's transactional practice focuses on corporate and securities matters. Nabil supports clients in achieving their unique goals, with a special emphasis on mergers and acquisitions structures, including stock acquisitions, asset acquisitions, and reverse mergers. Nabil has experience in all stages of the M&A process, including structure considerations, financing requirements, purchase agreements, ancillary documents, and closing coordination. He is naturally meticulous, thoughtful, and exacting, and enjoys using those attributes in all aspects of his practice.

Nabil leverages his corporate law background with his prior decade-long experience serving as executive and board member of several international publicly owned companies. In the corporate space, he assists clients with corporate formations, entity conversions, and state law considerations. In the capital markets sphere, Nabil grasps an intimate knowledge of the federal securities laws and many Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) regulations, based on which he assists public companies with the preparation and filing of annual reports, 10-K filings, 8-K filings, among other securities, disclosures and SEC compliance requirements.

Nabil graduated cum laude from Washington University School of Law, prior to which he earned an MBA from Columbia University. In law school, he served as Senior Executive Editor at the Washington University Law Review, and received the Mary Collier Hitchcock Prize and the Judge Myron D. Mills Administrative Law Award for outstanding legal writing in recognition of his published writing. He also served as an extern for Judge R. Stephen Clark of the United States District Court for the Eastern District of Missouri.
