In both state and federal court, Viviana represents a wide range of clients.

She works closely with financial institutions, commercial property owners, closely held entities, executive officers and national corporations on matters related to employment issues, contract disputes and business torts, products liability, free speech, consumer finance and real estate litigation.

As an experienced litigator, Viviana supports clients from matter inception through resolution. She skillfully drafts and argues substantive motions and counsels clients on liability exposure, methods for mitigating damages, and settlement. Additionally, she attends settlement conferences and mediations for clients.

Viviana has successfully first-chaired a criminal defense trial resulting in the dismissal of all substantive charges and probation without any incarceration for her client.
