Purpose of Training Series

The Title IX rule effective August 14, 2020, creates a new and specific process by which postsecondary institutions must manage complaints of covered sexual harassment on campus.

The TC Title IX Training Series is designed to provide foundational training to those individuals who will help to administer this required process, including Title IX coordinators, investigators, adjudicators, advisors, appeal officers, and individuals responsible for managing informal resolutions.
Use of Training Series

Institutions of higher education are welcome to use this foundational training series at their discretion, and to post the series to their websites as part of their Title IX training materials (a requirement under the new rule).

TC also is available to prepare custom Title IX training sessions, hearing simulations, and other assistance with Title IX matters (contact Aaron Lacey or Scott Goldschmidt).
The foundational training series includes the following six sessions:

1. Introduction to Managing Title IX Sexual Harassment
2. Formal Complaints of Title IX Sexual Harassment
3. Investigations & Informal Resolutions
4. Hearings
5. Determinations
6. Appeals
Syllabus for this Session

The Formal Complaint Framework
Title IX of the Education Amendments of 1972 prohibits discrimination on the basis of sex in education programs and activities and employment.

- Covers not only equity in athletic programming, but all forms of discrimination based on sex.
- Protects students and employees.
- Applies to all institutions that receive federal financial assistance, either directly or indirectly.
- Enforced by the Office of Civil Rights.

20 U.S.C. §1681 et seq.
The Title IX Regulations

Amplify the statute considerably, requiring institutions to:

- Disseminate a policy which includes a non-discrimination statement.
- Designate a Title IX Coordinator.
- Adopt and publish grievance procedures that are prompt and equitable and allow for adequate, reliable, and impartial investigation of complaints.
- Take action to address and prevent sex-based discrimination in all forms.

34 CFR 106.8.
The New Title IX Rule

Controversial, and already challenged, ED’s new rule is its first regulation addressing sexual harassment since 1975.

The new rule articulates a complex framework for managing allegations of sexual harassment on campus.
Discrimination Based on Sex: Institutions are obligated to adopt and publish grievance procedures that provide for the prompt and equitable resolution of student and employee complaints alleging any form of prohibited sex discrimination occurring against a person in the United States. 34 CFR 106.8(c)-(d).

Title IX Sexual Harassment: With or without a formal complaint, institutions with actual knowledge of Title IX sexual harassment occurring in an education program or activity of the school against a person in the United States must respond promptly in a manner that is not deliberately indifferent and complies with 34 CFR 106.44(a).

Formal Complaint of Title IX Sexual Harassment: In response to a formal complaint of sexual harassment, institutions must follow a Title IX formal complaint process that complies with the new standards set forth in 34 CFR 106.45.
A formal complaint of Title IX sexual harassment means a document filed by a complainant or signed by the Title IX Coordinator alleging sexual harassment against a respondent and requesting that the school investigate the allegation of sexual harassment.

For the purpose of addressing formal complaints of sexual harassment, a school’s formal Title IX complaint policy and process must comply with specific requirements set out in the new rule.

34 CFR 106.30(a)-(b) (August 14, 2020).

The Formal Complaint Framework

- 10 Core Requirements
- Dismissal of Formal Complaints
- Consolidation of Formal Complaints

---

34 CFR 106.45(b)(1)-(10) (August 14, 2020).
10 Core Requirements
1. Equitable Treatment

A formal complaint process must treat complainants and respondents equitably by:

- providing remedies to a complainant where a determination of responsibility for sexual harassment has been made against the respondent; and
- by following a complaint process that complies with the new Title IX rule.

Remedies must be designed to restore or preserve equal access to the school’s education program or activity.

2. Objective Evaluation

A school’s formal complaint process must require an objective evaluation of all evidence and provide that credibility determinations may not be based on a person’s status as a complainant, respondent, or witness.

An objective evaluation is one that involves:

• Impartial consideration of available evidence.
• No prejudgment of parties, witnesses, facts at issue, or how facts at issue are presented.
• No deference to recommendations of an investigator.

2. Objective Evaluation

A credibility determination involves determining what statements to believe and what statements not to believe, based on the “credibility” of the individual making the statement.

- Adjudicators may believe everything a party or witness says, part of it, or none or it.

In some situations, there may be little to no evidence other than the statements of the parties themselves.
3. Training of Key Participants

A school’s process must include training for coordinators, investigators, and adjudicators and require that they be free of conflict of interest.

- Materials used to train Title IX Coordinators, investigators, adjudicators, and any person who facilitates an informal resolution process, must not rely on sex stereotypes and must promote impartial investigations and adjudications of formal complaints of sexual harassment.

3. Training of Key Participants

Title IX Coordinators, investigators, adjudicators, and any person who facilitates informal resolutions

- Definition of sexual harassment and scope of the school’s education program or activity.
- Conducting an investigation and grievance process including hearings, appeals, and informal resolutions.
- Serving impartially, including by avoiding prejudgment of the facts at issue, conflicts of interest, and bias.

Investigators

- Issues of relevance to create an investigative report that fairly summarizes relevant evidence.

Adjudicators

- Using technology at live hearings.
- Relevance of questions and evidence, including when questions and evidence about complainant’s sexual history are not relevant.

The Formal Complaint Framework

Dismissal of Formal Complaints

Consolidation of Formal Complaints

3. Training of Key Participants

What are best training practices?

• Develop a training plan and consider combining different types of training (live, remote, asynchronous).

• Encourage and ensure time for questions when possible.

• Consider simulations, which can introduce participants to policies and procedures, force them to grapple with difficult aspects of the process, provide an opportunity for questions to be answered in real-time, and allow for suggestions or corrections.
4. Presumption of Innocence

A school’s formal complaint process must include a presumption of innocence for the respondent.

- “The presumption does not imply that the alleged harassment did not occur; the presumption ensures that recipients do not take action against a respondent as though the harassment occurred prior to the allegations being proved, and the final regulations require a recipient’s Title IX personnel to interact with both the complainant and respondent in an impartial manner throughout the grievance process without prejudgment of the facts at issue, and without drawing inferences about credibility based on a party’s status as a complainant or respondent.”

5. Prompt Timeframes

A school’s process must include reasonably prompt timeframes for resolution and allow for temporary delay or limited extension for good cause.

- “Any time frame included by the recipient must be “reasonably prompt,” where the reasonableness of the time frame is evaluated in the context of the recipient’s operation of an education program or activity.”

- “The Department believes that each recipient is in the best position to balance promptness with fairness and accuracy based on the recipient’s unique attributes and the recipient’s experience with its own student disciplinary proceedings…”

6. Sanctions and Remedies

A school’s formal complaint process must describe the range of possible sanctions and remedies.

- “Whether and what type of sanctions are imposed is a decision left to the sound discretion of recipients.”
- The new regulations “permit recipients to evaluate such considerations and make disciplinary decisions that each recipient believes are in the best interest of the recipient’s educational environment.”

7. Standard of Evidence

A school’s process must detail the standard of evidence that will be used and provide for consistent use in all formal complaints.

• Schools may use either preponderance of the evidence or clear and convincing.

• Preponderance of the evidence means a particular fact or event was more likely than not to have occurred.

• Clear and convincing means a particular fact or event was highly and substantially more likely than not to have occurred.

A school’s formal complaint process must describe the appeal process and standards.

- Appeals may be granted on the following bases:
  - a procedural irregularity that affected the outcome;
  - new evidence that was not reasonably available at the time the determination or dismissal was made and could affect the outcome; and
  - the Title IX Coordinator, investigator, or adjudicator had a conflict of interest or bias that affected the outcome of the matter.
- A school also may offer an appeal equally to both parties on additional bases.

34 CFR 106.45(b)(1) and (8) (August 14, 2020).
9. Supportive Measures

A school’s process must describe the range of available supportive measures.

- Counseling
- Extensions of deadlines or other course-related adjustments
- Modifications of work or class schedules
- Campus escort services
- Mutual restrictions on contact between the parties
- Changes in work locations
- Changes in housing locations
- Leaves of absence
- Increased security and monitoring of certain areas of the campus
- Leaves of absence
- Consolidation of Formal Complaints
- Dismissal of Formal Complaints
- 10 Core Requirements
- The Formal Complaint Framework

34 CFR 106.45(b)(1)(viii)-(x) (August 14, 2020).
10. Legal Privilege

A school’s formal complaint process must not require, allow, rely upon, or otherwise use questions or evidence that constitute, or seek disclosure of, information protected under a legally recognized privilege, unless the person holding such privilege has waived the privilege.

- Legal privileges protect communications and documents from disclosure. Examples include: Attorney – Client; Priest – Penitent; Doctor – Patient; Spousal.

34 CFR 106.45(b)(1)(viii)-(x) (August 14, 2020).
Dismissal of Formal Complaints
Schools must dismiss a formal complaint of sexual harassment “for purposes of sexual harassment under title IX” if the alleged conduct:
- would not constitute sexual harassment even if proved;
- did not occur in the school’s education program or activity; or
- did not occur against a person in the United States.

Such a dismissal does not preclude action under another provision of the school’s code of conduct.

Optional Dismissal

Schools may dismiss a formal complaint of sexual harassment if, at any time:

• a complainant notifies the Title IX Coordinator in writing that he or she would like to withdraw;
• the respondent is no longer enrolled or employed by the school; or
• specific circumstances prevent the school from gathering sufficient evidence to reach a determination.

Upon a required or optional dismissal, schools must promptly and simultaneously send written notice to the parties.

“The § 106.45 grievance process obligates recipients to investigate and adjudicate allegations of sexual harassment for Title IX purposes; the Department does not have authority to require recipients to investigate and adjudicate misconduct that is not covered under Title IX, nor to preclude a recipient from handling misconduct that does not implicate Title IX in the manner the recipient deems fit. In response to commenters’ concerns, the final regulations clarify that dismissal is mandatory where the allegations, if true, would not meet the Title IX jurisdictional conditions…”

Must schools always investigate a formal complaint of sexual harassment?

• Yes.

Under what circumstances is a mandatory dismissal applied?

• A formal complaint of sexual harassment “for purposes of sexual harassment under Title IX” must be dismissed if the alleged conduct:
  • would not constitute sexual harassment even if proved;
  • did not occur in the school’s education program or activity; or
  • did not occur against a person in the United States.
If a school is required to dismiss a complaint, can it still investigate and adjudicate the complaint under alternative procedures?

- Yes. Such a dismissal does not preclude action under another provision of the school’s code of conduct.
Consolidation of Formal Complaints
Consolidation of Formal Complaints

Provided the allegations of sexual harassment arise out of the same facts or circumstances, schools are permitted to consolidate formal complaints that are:

- Against more than one respondent
- By more than one complainant against one or more respondents
- By one party against the other party

ED issues instructions to Higher Ed to obtain CARES Act funds

Earlier this afternoon, the U.S. Department of Education sent a letter to institutional leaders detailing the process for securing the first round of relief funds under the Coronavirus Aid, Relief, and Economic Security ("CARES") Act. The Department has included a breakdown of the funds each institution will receive under the Higher Education Emergency Relief Fund, as well as a Certificate of Agreement that must be completed.
