HEADLINE China Imposes Retaliatory Tariffs & Export Controls

DATE February 4 2025 12:30PM EST

AGENCY China - Ministry of Finance

STATUS Signed

EFFECTIVE DATE 10 February 2025

BACKGROUND China responded to President Trump's February 1 Executive Order imposing an additional 10% duties on all goods from China with retaliatory tariffs, export controls.

DETAILS China announced retaliatory tariffs against the U.S., including a 15% tariff on coal and liquified natural gas imports, and a 10% tariff on crude oil, agricultural machinery, pickup trucks, and large-engine cars. China also unveiled new export controls on 25 rare metals and chemicals including tungsten, tellurium, bismuth, and molybdenum, which are used in a range of industrial & aerospace appliances.

China filed a complaint with the WTO's dispute settlement mechanism against the U.S. decision to impose additional tariffs on goods from China, and is undertaking investigations of certain U.S. companies, although the government did not directly relate these investigations to the tariff actions by the United States.
