I have practiced law both as outside and in-house counsel, which gives me a unique perspective when advising clients, especially when they are wanting “real world” answers to legal problems.

overview

April Greer is a commercial finance lawyer and a member of the firm's banking practice. April represents commercial banks and finance companies, advising them in secured and unsecured finance transactions. Her experience includes both single bank and syndicated transactions.

With more than 20 years of experience as a corporate attorney, April also advises clients on business ownership issues and other business transactions.

April began her career as a law firm corporate associate and also spent more than 10 years at Aegion Corporation, serving as general counsel - corrosion protection and corporate counsel, representing the company in a variety of transactions and circumstances globally. She brings this in-house experience to her work advising clients as outside counsel today, which helps her tailor solutions to their needs.

experience

- Representing national and regional financial institutions in automobile floorplan financing
- Representing international banks in multimillion-dollar secured and unsecured finance transactions with high-net-worth individuals

in my free time

Away from the office, I practice Pilates, read and spend time with my son. He and I love to travel both in the U.S. and internationally. Some of our favorite trips are cruises to the Caribbean and Alaska. I also loved, pre-kid, traveling to Europe and parts of the Middle East and India, and I hope to get back to that one day soon!
