

Rachael

Rachael C. Moore
Associate

rmoore@thompsoncoburn.com

St. Louis
D - (314) 552-6207

MY SERVICES

Business Litigation
Tax Controversy

EDUCATION

University of Missouri-Columbia School of Law, J.D., cum laude, 2021

Certificate in Dispute Resolution

Note and Comment Editor, Missouri Law Review

University of Missouri-Columbia, B.A., Psychology, summa cum laude

ADMISSIONS

Missouri

I am a passionate litigator committed to providing exceptional service to clients in all areas of litigation.

overview

Rachael Moore assists in all stages of litigation. Her experience includes pre-suit investigation and independent review, pleading and motion practice, discovery and depositions, trial, and appeals.

Rachael works closely with clients to develop an acute understanding of their business and their litigation goals, spot issues before they arise, and generate creative solutions and strategies to complex legal issues.

Additionally, Rachael is involved in the firm's state and local tax group, representing clients before Missouri state and local taxing authorities in sales/use, property, and other tax matters. Rachael is also passionate about her community and providing pro bono legal services to those in need.

experience

- Represented the Circuit Attorney of the City of Saint Louis in vacating the conviction of Christopher Dunn, who was wrongfully convicted of murder based on faulty eyewitness identification and served 34 years in prison before his exoneration

languages

- Spanish, Intermediate/Conversational

publications

- "Creating an Impossible Burden: State ex rel. Becker v. Wood and Prosecutorial Vindictiveness" Missouri Law Review Winter 2022

in my free time

I enjoy embroidery, baking, and completing the New York Times' daily Crossword, Connections, and Spelling Bee. I have been to two Eras Tour shows in two different countries. I also am an avid reader. My favorite genre is magical realism, and my favorite author is Emily St. John Mandel.